Another racket which has been worked in Chicago and hereabouts with signal success for the past few years is what is known as the "express package." The operator picks out some gullible-looking "guy" about the railroad depot, and, after a few words of introductory conversation, inquires how much money the traveler has about him, and forthwith explains how he has just come from some Iowa town to purchase a bill of goods in Chicago, and how he has foolishly spent all his ready money, and has left only an indorsed check, or per-haps a certificate of stock in the United States Mining Company, of Colorado. The latter is gotten up in the most elaborate style, and is as close as may be an imitation of a United States bond. The train is just about to leave. The sharper in the role of a country mer- cylinder in form. It is provided with chant has just purchased a bill of goods, a hinged leaf or press plate that moves but, having run short of cash, is unable to pay the freight. Would the gentleman be so kind as to advance the sum necessary upon the worthless check or bond? Transparent as the game is, it is astonishing how many people get bitten, but it is generally the case that the amounts are small, and are taken from the class of travelers who can best afford the loss. Sometimes the victim is hoodwinked by two or more operators, who approach him in succession.

Outside of the bunko and confidence games proper there are a number of side tracks, so to speak, which are practiced by the "profesh" every time an opportunity presents itself. It used to be a favorite resort of the famous Canada Bill, when three-card or "con" remark incorporating the word "transpire" used in the sense of "perspire." His confederate, who was generally as countrified looking as himself, would take him up, and thereupon a debate would ensue as to the existence of such a word as transpire, and its correct use in place of perspire. The debate had no sooner waxed hot than some wisacre aboard of the car would assure Bill that he was wrong, and that the word was "perspire." Then Bill would begin betting, and the wiseacre, "capped" by Bill's confederate, would run the amount away up. The money was put up in the "capper's" hand and at the very first way-station at which the train stopped for any length of time, an Unabridged would be searched out and consulted, and Bill won every time. This game was so simple, and yet so successful, that Bill finally got into the habit of making the conductor the referee, and, placing a dictionary in his hands when he got aboard, he was thus enabled to "skin" any number of suckers without putting himself to the inconvenience of leaving the train.

Three-card monte, which is by long odds the most popular train game, consists merely of throwing three cards about with such dexterity as to deceive the better as to where a certain card is placed. Generally a three-card outfit consists of a card with the picture of an old man or woman, another with a baby, and yet another with only a star. These are bent and elipped in such a way that when held between the two forefingers and thumb of the operator they may be thrown face downward in quick succession upon a table in any order which the operator chooses. A short shuffle is then made, and the operator can defy even his most famous rival in the business to pick out the proper card. When it is so impossible for one three-card monte man to win from another, the total impossibility of a greenhorn winning may be readily imagined.

Yet another favorite game of the confidence man is the thimble-rig, but good thimble-riggers are fast dying off. Three cards are very much easier thrown, and the average sharper is quite content with just so much legerdemain as will enable him to throw them prop-erly. As an example of the thimblerigger's art it need only be stated that an adept in the business, upon being ar-raigned before a police justice in this city, once upon a time, proposed to "shake the Jedge" to see which of the two should serve the term in the House of Correction, which had just been imposed upon him as a punishment. The "fakir" produced his walnut shells and balls, and tossing them about for a time. defied the court to tell what had become of the ball. The court lost, but, nothing disconcerted, announced that the prisoner was altogether to clever to be permitted to run at large, and so doubled his sentence.

There are any number and variety of games practiced by the amateur sharpers, but if the grangers and strangers coming to Chicago, or visiting for the first time any large city, will only bear there games in mind, and avoid everything which bears any similarity to them, they will not be likely to quit town with very much less money than they ought, after paying hotel bills and livery hire .- Chicago Herald.

An Undoubted Blessing.

About thirty years ago, a prominent physician by the name of Dr. William Hall discovered, or produced after long experimental research, a remedy for diseases of the throat, ebest and lungs, which was of such wonderful efficacy that it soon gained a wide reputation in this country. The name of the medicine is Dr. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and may be safely relied on as a speedy and positive cure for coughs, colds, sore throat, etc. Sold by all Druggists. etc. Sold by all Druggists.

An Internal Revenue Officer Saved. PROVIDENCE, August 21, 1882.

Editor of Boston Herald: DEAR SIR-During my term of service in the Interns Revenue Department of the United States, at the time my office was in this city. I was afflicted with a severe attack of kidney disease, and at time-suffered intense ly. I received the medical advice of some of our bes physicians for a long time, without being benefited by their prescriptions. Being discouraged by the failure of the doctors to help me, and being urged to us Hunt's Remedy by a friend who had tested its merits, although reluctant to try a patent medicine, I was induced to try it, and procured two bottles of it, and commenced taking it faithfully ac cording to the directions,

Before I had taken it three days the excruciating pains in my back had disappeared, and before I had used two bottles I was entirely cured. Whenever, from over-exertion or a violent cold, the pains in my kidney return, a few doses of Hunt's Remedy quickly effects :

Before closing I beg to mention the remarkable cure of a friend of mine in New York City, to whom I recommended this valuable medicine. He was suffering severely from an attack which was pronounced by his physician a decided case of Bright's Disease of the Kid neys. I obtained two bottles of Hunt's Remedy for him, and he commenced taking it, and began to improve at once, and was speedily restored to health, and he attributes the saying of his life, under the blessing of a merciful Providence, to Hunt's Remedy. Another friend of mine in New York, to whom I rec ommended Hunt's Remedy, was suffering severely from kidney disease, and was entirely cured of it after using this wonderful medicine only a short period. Feeling deeply grateful for the great benefits experienced by my friends and myself from the use of Hunt's Remedy, I feel it to be my duty, as well as a great privilege, to furnish you this voluntary and unsolicited nt of facts for the number of readers, many of whom are undoubtedly suffering from this widely-spreading scourge, and I be-M PRIZE ugater should be paid in English Heve that it is the best medicine now known, and that money. The pounds are symbolic of his profession.—Philadelphia Chronicle-Herald.

I shall be pleased to confirm this winery-spreading scourge, and I believe that it is the best medicine now known, and that I will cure all cases of kidney diseases that can be cured. sire an interview regarding the statements herein con-
